DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1 and 5-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Mohajer.

Mohajer discloses in figures 1-5 a contraceptive device comprising an intraluminal body 10 which is at least in part radially expandable (note fig. 1 and fig. 3) about a longitudinal axis from a first configuration (fig. 3) to a second configuration (fig. 3) and a contraceptive agent (col. 8, lines 23-26).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ritchart in view of Leeper.

Ritchart discloses in figures 1-10 a contraceptive device 14 which is at least in part radially expandable about a longitudinal axis having an open frame work (the coil is open in its expanded state), the coil is a helical wire and has a lumen (fig. 2b) and a medicine carried by the device (col. 10, lines 1-4). Ritchart, also teaches that the device can be an intrauterine device (col. 10, lines 12-15). However, Ritchart does not disclose that the medicine is used for contraceptive purposes. Leeper teaches in figure 1 a contraceptive that is a helical device carrying a contraceptive material (anti-virals, col. 9, line 18-20). It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time that the invention was made that the contraceptive material as taught by Leeper could be substituted for the medicine disclosed by Ritchart in order to use the contraceptive material to prevent pregnancy.

Claim 7 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the reference as applied to claims above, and further in view of Strubel.

Strubel teaches in figure 1 a contraceptive having a coil 3 made of copper. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time that the invention was made that the helical coil disclosed by Ritchart could be fabricated of copper as taught by Strubel because copper is a shape memory material.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. No additional prior art was cited during the first office action.
